Vision Statement
My name is Jesse Wollin and I am a driven and passionate front end web designer and developer with a curiosity for new and emerging technologies.

Using a myriad of tools with a pragmatic and strategically creative approach, I show determination in helping others tell their unique entrepreneurial story. The most incredible thing along the way is using my technical expertise to create a clear user experience through wire-framing and design briefing to create an overall design strategy to anticipate user engagement and business goals.

I am flexible and adaptable — regardless of whether I am executing responsive front end code from a design using HTML, CSS, javascript, jQuery and WordPress or conceptualizing ideas for a project design brief by brainstorming and utilizing the Adobe Creative Suite. These qualities make me uniquely qualified to solve complex problems, but also make me well prepared to work with different media across a diverse range of personalities and subject matter.
